Tip of the Month

Construction projects often create risks in addition to those normally associated with your standard operations as a utility owner. Although you may already carry a variety of insurance coverage, it is still a good idea to ensure that any additional risks associated with a new project will be covered. One important item all utility owners should consider is to require that the utility owner and their engineer be named as additional insured on the contractor's policy for every construction project.

Funding Facts

It is time to begin planning how to spend your 2011 MFT allotment. In keeping with the holiday season, we have given you a shopping list of items that can be purchased with your 2011 MFT.

WISH LIST: oil and chip, culverts, ditch cleaning, sidewalks/handicap ramps, mowing, snow removal, road reclamation, curbs and gutters, storm sewer improvements, roadway extensions, patching and asphalt overlays, staff salary and expenses, equipment operation and expenses, storm water engineering studies, parking lots, ROW expenses, street lighting, signage, and street sweeping.

If blast furnace slag is on your wish list this year, we recommend that you prepare a resolution for its purchase in December. Purchasing this material now could avoid disappointment next summer if its availability becomes scarce.
